

October 2024

Rainfall amounts in Neno will range from 0 to 30mm.
The first rains may be accompanied by strong winds and lightning.

November 2024

Rainfall onset is expected between the second and third week of November.
TA Dambe and Neno Boma will receive rainfall amounts up to 50mm.
Most of the eastern side of the district, including TA Symon and southern parts of TA Mlauli, will receive rainfall between 30 and 50mm.

December 2024

Most areas are expected to receive rainfall exceeding 160mm.
Neno Boma is expected to receive above 200mm.

January 2025

January will be wetter, with rainfall over 350mm expected in TA Chekucheku, Dambe, and Neno Boma — increasing flood risk.
TA Symon, TA Mlauli, and parts of Majete Game Reserve will receive rainfall between 200 and 260mm.

February 2025

Neno Boma is expected to receive rainfall exceeding 250mm.
TA Symon, TA Mlauli, and parts of Majete Game Reserve will receive rainfall between 160 and 200mm.

March 2025

Most of the district will receive rainfall between 150 and 200mm.
Some areas in TA Mlauli, TA Symon, and parts of Majete are expected to get rainfall in the range of 100 to 150mm.
Cessation is expected between the last week of March and the first week of April.

April 2025

Most areas will receive rainfall between 30 and 50mm.

Neno Boma is expected to receive 50 to 70mm.

Rainfall cessation is expected from the last week of March to the first week of April in many areas.

Seasonal Summary

- Rainfall onset: Between the second and third week of November 2024.
- Rainfall cessation: From the last week of March to the first week of April 2025.
- Dry spells of not more than two weeks expected in January and February.
- Seasonal length is likely to be around 127 days (range: 120 to 135 days).